

SHATTUCK HARTWELL

THE LITTLETON GUIDON

SATURDAY, NOV. 11, 1899

SHATTUCK HARTWELL died very suddenly of nephritis, last week Wednesday, at his Boston home. He was a native of this town and the body was brought here for burial last Saturday afternoon, the funeral being held in the Orthodox church, of which he had been a member over forty years. Rev. Amelia A. Frost officiated. Mr. Hartwell graduated from Harvard and the Harvard law school, practicing his profession while in Cincinnati, Ohio, where he was married. He has been a member of the house of representatives, and during the civil war was on the staff of his classmate, Gen. E. A. Wild. He was employed in the Boston customhouse for upwards of thirty years. He was devotedly attached to his old home here, where he lived till advancing years compelled him to winter nearer his place of business. Last August, surrounded by children and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Hartwell quietly observed their golden wedding anniversary, welcoming old friends for the friendly grasp and pleasant words. A widow and six children survive him. We learn that Mrs. Hartwell will spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Sewell, in North Brookfield.
