

DEATH. — Francis P. Knowlton died Wednesday forenoon of apoplexy. He had retired the night previous in his usual health, to all appearances, and his daughters discovered him in an unconscious state when they called him to breakfast ~~Wednesday~~ morning. He had been at work on a genealogy of the Knowlton family, and remarked to his daughters, "There, I have finished that portion of the genealogy." His wife was visiting relatives in Worcester. He has been a resident of Littleton for upwards of thirty years; a very exemplary citizen and was much respected. He was in his seventy-eighth year. This makes the third death in Littleton, of aged people, in the past three weeks. John P. Tuttle and then Thomas P. Nye.
