Richard W. Roczynski ...Littleton, Raytheon worker; 66

LITTLETON — Richard W. Roczynski, 66, of Littleton, died Wednesday, April 4, while vacationing in Las Vegas.

He was the husband of Marion A. (Femia) Roczynski, to whom he was married for 41 years.

He was born in Waltham, Aug. 12, 1940, son of the late Roman and Lottie (Durkin) Roczynski. He was raised and educated in Waltham, and graduated from Waltham High School in 1958.

Before relocating to Littleton, he and his family had resided in Arlington.

Mr. Roczynski was a printer most of his life and was employed at the Raytheon Co., in Waltham. He had also been employed in the Department of Public Works Department in the towns of Arlington and Lexington.

He was an avid landscaper and enjoyed manicuring his lawn and walks with his three dogs, Molly, Candy and Tammi. He was also an outdoorsman and enjoyed fishing. He also enjoyed the role of "apprentice" plumber while working with his son.

Mr. Rozynski was also a parishioner of St. Anne's Parish in Littleton.

Besides his wife, he is survived by his children, Bette A. Kalukiewicz and her husband, Bob, Richard R. Roczynski, and Derek M. Roczynski, all of Littleton; three granddaughters, Cheri Driscoll and her husband, Brendan, Tracy and Christine Kalukiewicz, all of Littleton; a great-grandson, Brendan Driscoll Jr.; a brother, Leo Rowe of Arlington; and a niece, Sandra Bennett of Foxboro.

He also leaves a dear friend, William Kingston, of Newton.

He was also the brother of the late Wanda Hopkins, Edward Roczynski, Irene McDaniels, Chester and Eleanor Roczynski.
