This Prime version of Aaron is for the traditional 2 generation family. Generous room sizes are complimented by an upstairs study Nook and a first floor study. There's room for everybody to be social, or not.

That giant walk-in laundry is the busy parent's dream. Access to the basement is convenient, allowing even more expansion - what we used to call the "Ruckus Room".

All I Need

© 2013 Art Form Architecture, Inc. All Rights Reserved . <http://www.artformhomeplans.com>

Yes, really - we named this one "All I Need"! It's for the single person who wants to live light, who's needs or budget are little. Maybe your budget is small, maybe simplicity is your life philosophy. All I Need is 100% dimensional lumber, not a stick bigger than 2x10. The rafters are 20 feet. Even the foundation is simple - a wood framed bearing wall and no steel columns. The 10:12 roof is a good pitch for solar panels. Need just a bit more? Check out Seabee, All We Need and the Snug Harbor series.

This group of designs is the start of our Free & Honor program. We're starting with the smallest ones. If you need something bigger, stay tuned or call us up!

Gairloch was designed for the narrower lot in a new community with very tight lot coverage and a high water table. Due to the high water table, it's shown here as slab-on-grade. A full foundation can be provided as an upgrade. The arch over the entry can also be extended to fully cover the landing, with slightly larger brackets, or even development as a porch.

This plan is slab-on-grade standard. A full foundation is available as an upgrade. With a full basement the mechanical room moves to the basement, the laundry moves to where we now show the mechanical equipment, and the door shown here to the stacked laundry now goes to the basement stairs. If you don't need the exterior storage, the back can be squared off for a larger master.

Rosebud is the smallest in our Rose Family, giving you charm and a ground floor master on a budget. The shed dormers are the simplest way to frame and still get some of the old New England feel.

We've just updated this design (March 2013) to show the drive-under garage and to add a duct chase.

"But it looks exactly like the Vanilla Shortcake!" Yep, that's the point. Where the whole Bakery group was designed to be budget friendly, the Cupcake is even more so. It's for meeting the tightest budget, specifically when a percentage in a development has to be affordable, yet look just like the others. And yes, we can adapt to be Strawberry or the other Bakery flavors.
