Walter L. Trachim, 82

Radar technician at Raytheon

A funeral service will be held this morning for Walter L. Trachim of Littleton, a longtime employee of Raytheon Co., who died Tuesday at his home. He was 82.

Mr. Trachim was born in Worcester and grew up in Maynard, where he attended school.

An Army veteran of World War II, he served three years in New Guinea, three years in Panama, and one in the United States. He was known as "G.I." to his fellow employees at Raytheon, where he worked as a radar technician for 33 years.

Mr. Trachim, who formerly lived in Derry, N.H., enjoyed hunting and fishing.

He leaves his wife of 46 years, Constance (Burk); three daughters, Gail Norton of Hudson, N.H., Claudia Dellovo of Littleton, and Nancy Trachim of Leominster; two sons, Walter R. of Goffstown, N.H., and Robert McConn of Raymond, N.H.; 10 grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

The funeral service will be at 10 a.m. in Badger Funeral Home at 347 King St. in Littleton. Burial will be in Westlawn Cemetery in Littleton.
