

DEATH.—There has been a death in town since your last issue, that of Mrs. Robert Gilson, whose age was seventy-six. Her death occurred Saturday, July 16th, and the funeral took place Tuesday afternoon, July 19, at the Baptist church. Mrs. Gilson's maiden name was Wilson, she was born in Alstead, N. H., one of eleven children, of which large family she was the last. She was over seventy-six years of age. The first few years of Mrs. Gilson's married life were spent in Lowell. It is nearly forty years since she with her family came to Littleton. She was a woman of very nervous temperament, and the many troubles she met caused a partial derangement of the brain. She was a woman of excellent qualities, kind in her family, and an excellent nurse in sickness. During the last ten years or more her mind has been under a cloud, but now the darkness has cleared away. Mrs. Gilson has had the kindest care and attention from her daughters, who have foregone every personal wish for her welfare. Many in whose families she so kindly nursed will ever remember her willingness and tact in every emergency.
